

The boardroom venue for the awards was packed to the brim with excited participants and attendees before, after and during the pitches, as they networked and discussed the issues of the day.

Maud Meijvis, African FinTech community manager, said:

“The awards went very well. The standard of competition has been incredible this year, with the judges having a really tough time of it to decide the winners.”

SA’s new stock exchange, ZAR X, was the sponsor of the awards and also competed in the InvesTech category.
